Houston Arts Alliance (HAA) is a nonprofit agency established by the City of Houston to enhance the quality of life and tourism by advancing the arts in the Houston region. HAA invests in and nurtures Houston's thriving creative community by providing more than 225 grants to nonprofit arts organizations and individual artists each year, commissioning the work of artists for public spaces, managing the city's art collection, showcasing Houston's rich folk life traditions, cultivating skill-based volunteers, and empowering arts organizations to become sustainable and reach new audiences through business incubation and other services.

letter from the chairman of the board and president + ceo

During our fiscal year 2014, Houston Arts Alliance (HAA) awarded 171 grants totaling $3,354,328.51 to Houston-based artists and organizations for general operating support and artistic programming as part of our mission to enhance the quality of life and tourism in the Houston region by supporting and promoting the arts.

Through our Capacity Building Initiative grants, we provide unique opportunities for local nonprofit arts organizations to impact their core business practices in order to grow. For 2013-14, 12 organizations received a total of $200,000 through the Capacity Building Initiative's key programs: the Residency Incubator for start-up organizations; the Accelerator Program for organizations experiencing growth; and the Sustainability Program for mature organizations experiencing decline and turnaround. As the new, three-year Residency Incubators, Houston Boy Choir, Karen Stokes Dance, Mildred's Umbrella Theater Company and NobleMotion Dance moved into their offices at HAA with access to in-depth professional development opportunities and $75,000 in funding over three years.

This year saw a flourishing of public art involving 80+ local artists in projects ranging from parking meters to the new portable works collection at Bush Intercontinental Airport. As part of its mission, HAA manages civic art projects that have a direct impact on the quality of life of Houstonians and our visitors—from transforming commonplace objects like parking meters into works of art to showcasing the work of local artists and global artists at the international gateway to our city.

In October 2013, we unveiled the first portable art collection within the Houston Airport System with works by established Texas masters and local emerging artists. Curated on the human scale, this collection of more than 100 paintings, sculptures and mixed-media pieces ranging from pendant-size to six feet expresses the vibrancy of Houston's arts and culture. The art work is funded by a city ordinance that mandates 1.75% of qualified Capital Improvement Project monies be set aside for the City's acquisition of new works of art and the professional conservation of the City's existing art collection.

That same month, Mayor Annise D. Parker unveiled the nation's first sculptural art parking meters in Houston's Warehouse District. The city's Parking Management Department and HAA collaborated on this solution to alleviate parking congestion while highlighting Houston's visual artists. David Medina, Devon Christopher Moore, Anthony Thompson Shumate and Ketrina Scott all found ingenious ways to transform the parking meters into sculptures using materials as diverse as cast bronze and vintage auto parts.

From September through March, visual artist Jo Ann Fleischhauer and the contemporary music group Musiqa collaborated on the temporary public art installation What Time Is It? at the Louis and Annie Friedman Clock Tower (also known as the Market Square Clock Tower) in downtown Houston's historic district. HAA partnered with Houston Downtown Management District, Blaffer Art Museum and Houston Parks and Recreation Department in support of this visually stunning work complete with original music. Of course, Konstantin Dimopoulos's temporary art installation The Blue Trees continued to mesmerize viewers and encourage gatherings amongst the blue trunks of the crepe myrtles on Allen Parkway.

Alliance Gallery hosted five exhibitions throughout the year, including Agrestis Animi, Another Layover, Constructing the Praxis of Interactivity, Michael Bise: Artist's Picks and 1511-2014, an eclectic and bold exhibition of intaglios, etching, lithographs and woodcuts spanning almost 500 years, in support of PrintHouston 2014. HAA also presented c'est la vie and Lee Littlefield: Speak at the Central Public Library.

HAA's Arts & Business Council of Greater Houston was also launched during the fall of 2013 as an initiative to create more sustainable arts organizations, build stronger support for the arts by businesses and share knowledge and best practices that will enhance the business skills of arts and culture organizations. As an affiliate program of Americans for the Arts (AFTA), the national advocacy organization for the nonprofit arts in America, the initiative offers programs and services focused on board leadership training, financial literacy, volunteerism and employee engagement.

In addition to our annual Voices of the Spirit concerts, which celebrate the musical traditions of our varied religious communities, HAA's Folklife + Traditional Arts Program produced the first-ever official Houston SLAB Parade + Family Festival, alongside partners Houston Museum of African-American Culture and Workshop Houston. This family-friendly event attracted hundreds of Houstonians, who turned out to see the beauty and sometimes tongue-in-cheek humor of the SLABs, a vehicle art form that originated in the African-American neighborhoods of Houston, Texas.

Throughout fiscal year 2014, HAA hosted a number of events including the Elected Officials Reception for the Arts in January 2014, a fall "Under Blue Trees" party and An Intimate Evening with Rita Moreno, the public/private partnership's first dinner fundraiser.

As the organization rounded out its 2014 fiscal year, plans were already well underway for the ambitious Transported + Renewed project in celebration of Houstonians' affinity for movement and reinvention, slated for September through November in the historic East End. Likewise, HAA's plans to recognize the Houston Ship Channel centennial with Stories of a Workforce: Celebrating the Centennial of the Houston Ship Channel at the Houston Public Library's Julia Ideson Building were near completion.

Thank you to our many friends, partners, and sponsors in making HAA's fiscal year 2014 such a success in advancing the arts in Houston.

Best regards,

Marc Melcher
